Learn-Protect-Save

Field ranger management

About this course

Our Field Ranger Management course, formerly known as Game Guard Management, draws from extensive hands-on experience to provide a comprehensive theoretical foundation. This course offers practical insights into establishing and managing effective ranger units on reserves and conservancies, focusing on combating poaching activities.

You will explore the history of field rangers in Southern Africa, learn best practices for selecting and training rangers, and gain knowledge about their deployment and ongoing management. This course is a practical and logical guide for reserve owners, wildlife managers, game farm operators, rangers, field guides, or anyone passionate about conservation. Developed in collaboration with renowned conservationist Ken Coetzee, this course is invaluable for those committed to safeguarding wildlife and preserving natural ecosystems.
